PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE.

WASHINGTON D C December 6 1881
To the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States

An appalling calamity has befallen the American people since their chosen representatives last met in the halls where you are now assembled We might dwell with unalloyed content upon the more prosperity with which throughout the year the nation has been blessed Its harvests have plenteous its varied industries shared the health of its people has been preserved It has maintained with foreign governments the undisturbed relations of amity and peace For these and manifestations of His favor we owe to Him who holds our destiny in His hands the tribute of our grateful devotion

OUR FOREIGN RELATIONS

Save for the correspondence to which I shall hereafter refer in relation to the proposed canal across the Isthmus of Panama little has occurred worth mention in diplomatic relations of the country Early in the year Fortune Bay claims were satisfactorily settled by the British government paying in the sum of $15 000 in lieu of which it has the right to distribute Also the terms of the settlement included compensation for injuries suffered by our fishermen at Aspee bay there has been retained from the gross award a sum which is deemed adequate for these claims

The participation of American in the exhibition at Melbourne and Sydney will be appropriately mentioned in the reports of the two exhibitions soon to be presented to congress They will disclose the readiness of our countrymen to make successful competition and open new fields of enterprise Negotiations for an international copyright convention are in hopeful progress

The surrender of sitting Bull and his force upon the Canadian frontier has allayed all apprehension although bodies of hostile Indians still cross the border in quest of sustenance Upon this subject a correspondence has been opened which promises an adequate understanding Our troops have orders to avoid collisions, all collisions will alienate Indians

The presence at the Yorktown celebration of representatives of the French republic, and descendants of Lafayette and of his gallant compatriots who were our allies in the revolution, has served to strengthen the spirit of good will which has always existed between the two nations You will be furnished with the proceedings of the international conference held during the summer at Paris No accord was reached, but a valuable interchange of views was had and the conference will meet next year by renewed At the electrical exposition and congress also held at Paris this country was creditably represented by eminent specialists who in the absence of an appropriation generously lent their efficient aid at the instance of the state department while our exhibitions in this almost distinctly American field of achievements have won several awards and I recommend that congress provide for the repayment of the personal expenses incurred in the public interest by the honorable commissioner and delegates

No new question respecting the status of our naturalized citizens in Germany have arisen during the year Cases of complaint, especially in Alsace and Lorraine, have practically ceased through the liberal action of the imperial government in accepting our often expressed views on the subject The application of the treaty of 1868 to the lately acquired Rhinish provinces has received very earnest attention A definite and lasting agreement on this point has admittedly expected The participation of the descendants of Baron Von Steuben in Yorktown to festival this and their subsequent reception by their American kinsmen strikingly evinced the ties of the good will which unite the German people and our own

Our intercourse with Spain has been friendly An agreement concluded in January last fixes a term for the labors of the Spanish and American claims commission The Spanish government has been requested to pay the three awards of the commission, and will, it is believed accede to the request as promptly and courteously as on former occasions By recent legislation onerous fines have been imposed upon American shipping in Spanish and colonial ports for slight irregularities in manifests One case of hardship is worthy of attention The bark Mason bound for Japan, entered Manilla in distress and is there sought to be confiscated under Spanish revenue laws for shortage in her manifest cargo Though an effort for her relief has thus far proved unavailing, it is expected that the whole affair will be adjusted in a friendly spirit

The senate resolution of condolence on the assassination of the Czar Alexander II was appropriately communicated to the Russian government, which in turn has expressed sympathy in our late national bereavement. It is desirable that our cordial relations with Russia should be strengthened by proper engagements assuring to peaceable Americans who visit the empire the consideration which is due them as citizens of a friendly state This is especially needful with respect to American Israelites whose classification with the native Hebrews has evoked energetic remonstrances from this government.

Consular agreement with Italy has been sanctioned and proclaimed which puts at rest conflicts of jurisdiction in the case of crimes on shipboard Several important international conferences have been held in Italy during the year

At the Geographical congress of Venice, the Boniface congress of Milan and the Nice congress of Turin, this country was represented by delegates from branches of the public service or by private citizens duly accepted in an honorary capacity It is hoped that congress will give such prominence to the results of their participation as they may seem to deserve

The abolition of all discriminating duties against Dutch colonial productions of the Dutch East Indies, as reported hitherto from Holland has been already considered by congress I trust that at the present session the matter will be favorably concluded

The injury to life and property in many parts of Turkey has given rise to correspondence with the porte looking particularly to the proper protection of American missionaries in the empire. The condemned murderer of the eminent missionary, Dr Justin W Parsons, has not yet been executed although this government has repeatedly demanded that exemplary justice be done.

The Swiss government has solicited the offices of our diplomatic and consular agents for the protection of its citizens in countries where it is not represented This request has, within proper limits, been granted Our agents in Switzerland have been instructed to protest against the conduct of the authorities of certain communes in permitting the expulsion to this country of criminals and other objectionable persons Several such persons, through the co-operation of the committees of emigration at New York, have been sent back by the steamers which brought them A continuance of this course may prove a more effectual remedy than diplomatic remonstrance

Treaties of commerce and navigation and for the regulation of consular privileges have been concluded with Roumania and Servia since their admission into the family of European states

The friendship of the United States and New Mexico has been constantly maintained The government has lost no occasion of encouraging the Mexican government to a beneficial realization of the mutual advantages which will result from more intimate commercial intercourse, and from the opening of the rich interior of Mexico to railway enterprise. I deem it important that means be provided to restrain the lawlessness unfortunately so common on the frontier and to suppress the forays on the reservations on either side of the Rio Grande

The neighborhood states of Central America are preserved informed peace and their onward relation toward us have been those of intimate friendship They are encouraging signs of their growing disposition to subordinate their local interest to those which are common to them by reason of their geographical relations The boundary dispute between Guatemala and Mexico has afforded this government an opportunity to exercise its good offices for preventing a rupture between these states and for procuring a peaceful solution of the question I cherish strong hope that in view of our relations of amity with both countries our friendly counsels will prevail

The Costa Rican government lately formed an engagement with Colombia for settling by arbitration the boundary question between those countries providing that the post of arbitrament should be offered successively to the king of the Belgians the king of Spain and the president of the Argentine Confederation The king of the Belgians has declined to act but I am not as yet advised of the action of the king of Spain As we have certain interests in the disputed territory which are protected by our treaty engagements with one of the parties, it is important that the arbitration should not without our consent affect our rights and this government has accordingly thought proper to make its views known to the parties to the agreement so as to intimate them to the Belgian government

PANAMA CANAL

The questions growing out of the proposed interoceanic water way across the Isthmus of Panama are of grave national importance This government has never been unmindful of the solemn obligations imposed upon it by its compact of 1846 with Colombia as the independent and sovereign mistress of the territory crossed by the canal and has sought to render them effective by fresh engagements with the Colombian republic looking to the practical execution of it The negotiations to this end after they had reached what appeared to be a mutually satisfactory solution have not in Colombia by a change of the powers which an envoy had assumed and by a proposal for renewed negotiations on a fortified basis Meanwhile this government learned that Colombia had proposed to the European powers to join a guarantee of the neutrality of the Panama canal a guarantee which would be in direct contravention of our obligation as the sole guaranty of the integrity of Colombian territory and of the neutrality of the canal itself My lamented predecessor felt it his duty to place before the European powers the reasons which made the prior guarantee of the United states indispensable, and for which the interjection of any foreign guarantee might be regarded as superfluous and unfriendly Foreseeing the probable reliance of the British government on the provisions of the Clayton Bulwer treaty of 1850 as awarding room for a share in the guarantees which the United states contended with Colombia four years before, I have not hesitated to supplement the action of my predecessor by proposing to her majesty's government the modification of the instrument and the abrogation of such clauses as do not comport with the obligations of the United States toward Colombia or with the vital needs of the two friendly parties to the compact.

SOUTH AMERICAN WAR

This government sees with great concern the continuance of the hostile relations between Chili Bolivia and Peru An early peace between the republics is much to be desired, not only that they may themselves be spared further misery and bloodshed, but because their continued antagonism threatens consequences which are in my judgment, dangerous to the interests of republican government on this continent and calculated to destroy the best element of our own peace As in the present excited condition of popular feeling in these countries, there has been serious misapprehension of the position of the United States, and as separate diplomatic intercourse with each through independent ministers is sometimes subject, owing to the want of prompt reciprocal communication, to temporary misunderstanding I have deemed it judicious at the present time to send a special envoy accredited to all and each of them and furnished with general instructions which will, I trust, enable him to bring these powers to friendly relations.

The government of Venezuela maintains its attitude of warm friendship and continues with great regularity its payment of the monthly quota of the diplomatic debt Without suggesting the direction in which congress should act, I ask attention to the pending questions affecting the distribution of the sums thus far recovered The relations between Venezuela and France growing out of the same debt, have been for some time past in an unsatisfactory state, and this government, as the neighbor and the largest of the creditors of Venezuela, has interposed itself with the French government, with the view of producing a friendly and honorable adjustment.

I regret that the commercial relations between the United States and Brazil, from which great advantages were hoped a year ago, have suffered from the withdrawal of the American lines of communication between Brazilian ports and our own Through the efforts of our minister resident at Buenos Ayres and the United States minister at Santiago, a treaty has been concluded between the Argentine Republic and Chili, disposing of the long pending Patagonian boundary question It is a matter of congratulation that our government has been offered the opportunity of successfully exerting its good influence for the prevention of disagreements between the republics of the American continent.

JAPAN AND REPUBLICAN GOVERNMENT

The intimacy between our country and Japan, the most advanced of the eastern nations, continues to be cordial I am advised that the emperor contemplates the establishment of a constitutional government, and that he has already summoned a parliamentary congress for the purpose of effecting the change. Such a remarkable step toward complete assimilation with the western system can't fail to bring Japan into closer and more beneficial relationship with ourselves as the chief pacific powers

CHINESE RELATIONS

I am glad to inform you that the treaties lately negotiated with China have been duly ratified on both sides and the exchange made at Peking. Legislation is necessary to carry its provisions into effect The prompt and friendly spirit with which the Chinese government at the request of the United States conceded the modification of existing treaties should secure careful regard for the interest and susceptibilities of that government in the enactment of any laws relating to Chinese immigration Those clauses of the treaties which forbid the participation of citizens on vessels of the United States in the opium trade will doubtless receive your approval, and they will attest the sincere interest which our people and government have in the commendable efforts of the Chinese government to put a stop to this demoralizing and destructive traffic. In relation both to China and Japan, some changes are desirable in our present system of consular jurisdiction I hope at some future time to lay before you a scheme for its improvement in the entire east. A question has arisen in relation to the exercising in that country of the judicial functions conferred on our ministers and consuls. The indictment, trial and conviction in the consular court at Yokohama of John Ross, a merchant seaman on board an American vessel have made it necessary for the government to institute a careful examination of the nature and methods of this jurisdiction It appears that Ross was regularly shipped under the flag of the United States but was by birth a British subject. My predecessor felt it his duty to maintain the position that during his service as a regularly shipped seaman on board an American merchant vessel Ross was subject to the laws of that service and to the jurisdiction of the United States consular authorities I renew the recommendation which has been heretofore urged by the executive on the attention of congress that after the deduction of such amount as may be found due American citizens the balance of the indemnity funds heretofore obtained from China and Japan and which are now in the hands of this state department be returned to the governments of those countries

VARIOUS COUNTRIES

Relations of unimpeached amity have been maintained throughout the year with the respective governments of Austria Hungary Belgium Denmark Hayti Portugal and Uruguay Portugal and Sweden and Norway And this may also be said of Greece and Ecuador although our relations with these states have for some years been severed by the withdrawal of appropriations for diplomatic representatives at Athens and Quito It seems expedient to restore those missions each on a reduced scale and I decidedly recommend such a course with respect to Ecuador which is likely within the near future, to play an important part among the nations of the South Pacific

The state department still continues to publish to the country the trade and manufacturing reports received from its officers abroad This success of this course warrants its continuance and such appropriation as may be required to meet the rapidly increasing demand for those publications with special reference to the Atlanta cotton exposition The October number of the reports was devoted to a double colored map of exports on the cotton trade of the world The International sanitary conference for which in 1879 congress made provision assembled in this city early in January last and its sessions were prolonged until March Although it reached no specific conclusion affecting the future action of the powers represented however the interchange of views proved to be most valuable. The final protocols of the sessions have been already presented to the state department

BOARD OF HEALTH

As pertinent to this general subject I call your attention to the operations of the national board of health established by act of congress approved March 3d 1879 Its sphere of duty was enlarged by the act of June 2d in the same year By the first named act the board was required to institute such measures as might be deemed necessary for preventing the introduction of contagious or infectious diseases from foreign countries into the United States or from one state into another the execution of the rules and regulations prepared by the board and approved by my predecessor has done much to arrest the progress of epidemic diseases and has thus rendered substantial service to the nation

The international sanitary conference to which I have referred adopted a form for a bill of health to be used by all vessels seeking to our ports of the countries whose representatives participated in the deliberations This form has been prescribed by the national board of health and incorporated with its rules and regulations which have been approved by me in pursuance of the law The health of the people is of supreme importance And measures looking to their preservation against the spread of contagious diseases and the increase of our sanitary knowledge for such purposes deserves the attention of congress

The report of the secretary of the treasury represents in detail a highly satisfactory exhibit of the state of finances and the condition of the various branches of the public service administered by that department. The ordinary resources from all sources for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1881, were, Customs, $198,159,676 02 from internal revenue $1 15,264 785 51, from public lands, $1,221,809 17, from tax on circulation and deposits of national banks $8 118 137 72, from repayment of interest by Pacific Railway companies, $810,853 80 from sinking fund for Pacific Railway companies $805 180 54 from miscellaneous fees, fines penalties, etc., $1,[illegible] 514 66, from consular fees letters patent and fees $2,244,084 09 from proceeds of sales of government property $26,217 40 from profits on coinage, $8,408,485 61, from revenue of the District of Columbia, $2,016 199 93, from miscellaneous sources, $6 206 850 13 Total ordinary receipts, $360,782,297

The ordinary expenditures for the same period were For civil expenses, $17,941,177 19, for foreign intercourse, $1 093 854 93 for Indians, $6,514 301 for pensions $5 050,279 62, for the military establishment, including river and harbor improvements and arsenals $40,466,460 55, for the naval establishment, including vessels, machinery and improvements at navy yard, $15 686 071 66, for miscellaneous expenditures, including public buildings, light houses and collecting the revenue, $41,837,350 56 for expenditures on account of the District of Columbia, $3 953 932 63 for interest on the public debt, $52,708 741 18, for premium on bonds purchased, $1,062 348 78, total ordinary expenditures, $260,712,952 99, leaving a surplus of revenue of $100 069 404 98 which was applied as follows To the redemption of bonds for the sinking fund $74,871,300 00 fractional currency for the sinking fund $200,001 05 loan of February, 1861, $7 415 000, ten forties of 1864, $2 010 150 65 five twenties of 1865 $372 000 consols of 1865, $143 150 00 consols of 1867, $150,150 00, consols of 1868, $33,740 000 loan for indemnity stock, $1 000 000, old demand compound interest and other notes $1 815 000 and to the increase of cash in the treasury, $14,637,020 03 Total $100 069,404 98. The requirements of the sinking fund for the year amount to $80 795 004 05 which includes a balance of $40 917 128 78 not provided for during the previous fiscal year The sum of $74,489 201 05 was applied to this fund which left a deficit of $10,305 871 47 The increase of the revenues for 1881 over those of the previous year was $20,352 901 10 It is estimated that the receipts during the present fiscal year will reach $400 000 000, and the expenditures $270,000 000, leaving a surplus of $130,000 000 applicable to the sinking fund and the redemption of the public debt. I approve the recommendations of the secretary of the treasury that provision be made for the early retirement of silver certificates and that the act requiring their issue be repealed They were issued in pursuance of the policy of the government to maintain silver at par with the gold standard and were accordingly made receivable for all customs taxes and public dues About sixty-six millions of them are now outstanding They formed an unnecessary addition to the paper currency and a sufficient student of which may be readily supplied by the national banks

SILVER COINAGE.

In accordance with the act of February 28, 1878, the treasury department has monthly caused at least two millions of dollars in value of silver bullion to be coined into standard silver dollars. One hundred and two million of these dollars have already been coined, while only about $24,000 000 are in circulation for the reasons which he specifies, I concur in the secretary's recommendation, that the provision for the coinage of a fixed amount of each be repealed; that hereafter only so much be coined as shall be necessary to supply the demand The secretary advises that the issue of gold certificates should not for the present be resumed, and suggests that the national banks may properly be forbidden by law to retire their currency except upon reasonable notice of their intention so to do Such legislation would seem to be justified by the recent action of banks on the occasion referred to in the secretary's report Of the fifteen millions of fractional currency still outstanding only eighty thousand has been redeemed the past year The suggestion that this amount may properly be dropped from future statements of the public debt seems worthy of approval as also does the suggestion of the secretary as to the advisability of relieving the calendar of the United States courts in the southern district of New York by the transfer to another tribunal of the numerous suits there pending, so that the collector

REVENUE FROM CUSTOMS

The revenue from customs for the past fiscal year was $198 159 676 02 an increase of $11,037 611 42 over that of last year $145 008 564 39 of this amount was collected at the port of New York leaving $53,151 148 [illegible] the amount collected at the other ports of the country Of this sum $47 [illegible] 137 [illegible] was collected on sugar and molasses, $[illegible] 621 78 on wool and its manufactures $21 [illegible] 514 [illegible] on iron and steel and manufactures $19 103 866 8 on manufactures of silk $10 825 115 21 on manufactures of cotton and $[illegible] in wines and spirits making a total revenue from these sources of $[illegible] 721 [illegible]

The expenses of collection for the past year were $[illegible] an increase over last year of $[illegible] Notwithstanding the increase in revenue from customs over the previous year the gross value of the imports including free goods decreased over twenty five millions of dollars The greatest decrease was in the value of the manufactures of wool $140 [illegible] and in that of silk and pig iron $1 [illegible] The value of imports of sugar on the other hand showed an increase of $[illegible] of steel rails $[illegible] of barley $2 [illegible] and of steel in bars, rods, etc $630 040

The total imports of all sorts of merchandise $[illegible] an excess of exports over imports of merchandise $[illegible] Average of exports and imports $[illegible] Compared with previous year there was an increase of $[illegible] in the value of exports of merchandise and a decrease of $5 [illegible] in the value of imports The annual average of increase of imports of merchandise over exports for ten years previous to June 30th 1879 was $104 [illegible] but for the last six years there has been an excess of exports over imports of merchandise amounting to $1 180 [illegible] an annual average of $196 [illegible] The specie value of the exports of the domestic merchandise was $[illegible] in 1880 and $[illegible] in 1881 an increase of $[illegible] or [illegible] per cent The value of the imports was $[illegible] in 1879 and $[illegible] in 1881 an increase of $206,[illegible] or 47 per cent During each year from 1876 to 1879 inclusive the exports of specie exceeded the imports The largest excess of such exports over imports was reached during the year 1880 when it amounted to $22 204 [illegible] but during the year ending June 30th 1881 the imports of gold and bullion exceeded those exports by $[illegible] and during the last fiscal year the excess of imports over exports were $91,[illegible]

In the last annual report of the secretary of the treasury the attention of congress was called to the fact that $[illegible] in five per centum bonds and $203 [illegible] in six per centum bonds would become redeemable during the year and congress was asked to refund these bonds at a lower interest. This bill for such refunding having failed to become law the secretary of the treasury in April last notified the holders of the $[illegible] 000 400 six per centum bonds then outstanding that the loan would be paid at par on the first day of July following or that they might be continued at the pleasure of the government, to bear interest at the rate of three and one-half per cent per annum Under this notice $178 [illegible] of the six per cent bonds were continued at the lower rate, and $17,635,250 were redeemed In the month of May a like notice was given respecting the redemption or continuance of the $439 841 350 of five per cent bonds then outstanding, and of these $401,905,900 were continued at three and one-half per cent per annum and $36,936,450 redeemed The six per cent bonds of the loan of February 8 1861 and of the Oregon war debt amounting to $14 [illegible] matured during the year the secretary gave notice of his intention to redeem the same, and such as have been presented have been paid from the surplus revenue There have also been redeemed at par $16,179,100 of the three and one-half per cent. continued bonds making a total of bonds redeemed, on which have ceased to bear interest The reduction of the annual interest on the public debt through these transactions is as follows By reduction of interest to three and one-half per cent., $10 47[illegible] by redemption of bonds $6,[illegible] total, $16 820 292 25 The three and one-half per cent bonds being payable at the pleasure of the government are available for the investment of surplus revenue without the payment of premiums Unless these bonds can be funded at a much lower rate of interest than they now bear I agree with the secretary of the treasury that no legislation respecting them is desirable It is a matter of congratulation that the business of the country has been so prosperous during the past year as to yield by taxation a large surplus income to the government. If the revenue laws remain unchanged this surplus must year by year increase, on account of the reduction of the public debt and its burden of interest and because of the rapid increase of our population In 1860 just prior to the institution of our internal revenue system, our population but slightly exceeded thirty millions, by the census of 1880 it is found to exceed fifty millions It is estimated that even if the annual receipts and expenditures should continue at present the entire debt would be paid in ten years. In view, however of the heavy load of taxation which our people have already borne, we may well consider whether it is not the part of wisdom to reduce the revenues, even if we delay a little the payment of the debt.

It seems to me that the time has arrived when the people may justly demand some relief from their present enormous burden and that by due economy in the various branches of the public service may this be readily effected I hereby agree with the secretary in recommending the abolition of all internal revenue taxes except those upon tobacco in its various forms and upon distilled and fermented liquors, and except also the special tax upon the manufacturers of and dealers in such article The intention of the latter tax was desirable as affording the officers of the government a proper supervision of these articles for the prevention of fraud I agree with the secretary of the treasury, that the law imposing a stamp tax on matches, proprietary articles playing cards, checks and drafts, may with propriety be repealed, and the law, also, by which banks and bankers are assessed upon their capital and deposits. There seems to be a general sentiment in favor of this course in the present condition of our revenues The tax upon deposits is especially unjust It was never imposed in this country until it was deemed necessary on account of the war, and was never exacted I believe, even in its greatest extremities Bankers are required to secure their circulation by pledging with the treasurer of the United States bonds of the general government The interest upon these bonds which, at the time when the tax was imposed was six per cent, is now, in most instances, three and one-half per cent., and besides the entire circulation was originally limited by law, and no increase was allowable When the existing banks had practically a monopoly of the business there was force in the suggestion that for the franchise to the favored grantees the government might very properly exact a tax on the circulation, but for years the system has been free and the amount of circulation regulated by the public demand The retention of this tax has been suggested as a means of reimbursing the government for the expense of printing and furnishing the circulating notes If the tax should be repealed it would certainly seem proper to require the national banks to pay the amount of such expense to the comptroller of the currency It is perhaps doubtful whether the immediate reduction of the scale of taxation upon liquors and tobacco is advisable, and especially in view of the drain upon the treasury which must attend the payment of the arrears of pensions A comparison however of the amount under the varying rates of taxation which have at different times prevailed suggests the intimation that some reduction may soon be made without material diminution of the revenue

The tariff laws also need revision but that a double task may be paid to the conflicting interests of our citizens important changes should be made with caution If a careful revision commission be made at this session a commission such as was lately approved by the senate and is now recommended by the secretary of the treasury would doubtless lighten the labors of congress whenever this subject shall be brought to its consideration

THE ARMY

The accompanying report of the secretary of war will make known the operations of the department for the past year He suggests measures for promoting the efficiency of the army without adding to the number of its officers and recommends the legislation necessary to increase the number of enlisted men to thirty thousand the maximum allowed by law This he deems necessary to maintain quietness on a very shifting frontier to preserve peace and support the order and maintenance in new settlements to protect settlers and their property against the Indians and the Indians against the encroachment of intruders and to enable peaceable immigrants to establish homes in the most remote parts of our country The army is now necessarily scattered over such a vast extent of territory that when an outbreak occurs reinforcements must be hurried from many quarters over great distances and always at heavy cost for transportation of men horses, wagons and supplies I concur in the recommendation of the secretary for increasing the army to the strength of 30 000 enlisted men It appears by the secretary's report that in the distance of disturbances on the frontier troops have been actively employed in the collection of Indians hitherto hostile and locating them on their proper reservations Sitting Bull and his adherents are now prisoners at Fort Kendall that the Utes have been moved to their new reservation in Utah that during the recent outbreak of the Apaches it was necessary to reinforce garrisons in Arizona by troops withdrawn from New Mexico and that some Apaches are now held prisoners for trial while some have escaped and the majority of the tribe are now on their reservation There is need of legislation to prevent intrusion upon the lands set apart for Indians A large military force at great expense now referred to patrol the boundary between Kansas and the Indian Territory the only punishment that at present can be inflicted is the forcible removal of the intruder and the imposition of a pecuniary fine, which in most cases it is impossible to collect There should be a penalty by imprisonment in such cases.

The separate organization of the signal service is urged by the secretary of war and a full statement of the advantage of such a permanent organization is presented in the report of the chief signal officer A detail of the usual work performed by the signal corps and the weather bureau is also given in that report. I ask attention to a statement of the secretary of war regarding the requisitions made by the Indian bureau upon the subsistence department of the army for the annual support of bands of Indian tribes, which applications are denied The war department should not be left by reason of inadequate provisions for the Indian bureau to contribute to the maintenance of Indians

The report of the chief engineer furnishes a detailed account of operations for improvement of rivers and harbors I recommend your attention to the suggestions contained in this report. In regard to the condition of our fortifications, especially our defences, I recommend an increase of the strength of the engineer battalion by which the efficiency of our torpedo system would be improved I also call your attention to remarks upon the improvement of the South Pass of the Mississippi river, to a proposed free bridge over the Potomac river at Georgetown the importance of completing at an early day the north wing of the department building and other recommendations of the secretary of war which appear in his report The actual expenditures of this department for the fiscal year ending June 30 1881, were $42 122,201 39, the appropriations for the year 1882 were $44 989,775 42 The estimates for 1883 are $41,541,248 91

THE NAVY

The report of the secretary of the navy exhibits the condition of that branch of service and presents valuable suggestions for its improvement. I call your especial attention to the appendix report of the advisory board which convened to devise suitable measures for increasing the efficiency of the navy and particularly to report as to the character and number of vessels necessary to place it upon a footing commensurate with the necessity of the government. I cannot too strongly urge upon you my conviction that every consideration of national safety, economy and honor imperatively demands a thorough rehabilitation of our navy With full appreciation of the facts that compliance with the suggestion of the head of the department and of the advisory board must involve a large expense of the public money I earnestly recommend such appropriations as will accomplish that which seems to be so desirable Nothing can be more inconsistent with true public economy than withholding means necessary to accomplish objects entrusted by the constitution to the national legislature One of these objects and one which is of paramount importance is drafted by our fundamental law to be the provision for the common defense Surely nothing is more essential to the defense of the United States and of all our people than the efficiency of our navy We have for many years maintained with foreign governments relations of honorable peace and that such relations may be permanent is desired by every patriotic citizen of the republic but it we read the teaching of history we shall not forget that in the life of every nation emergencies may arise when a resort to arms only can save it from dishonor No danger from abroad now threatens this people nor have we any excuse to distrust the friendly professions of our government, but for avoiding as well as for repelling dangers that may threaten in the future we must be prepared to force any policy which we think wise to adopt. We must be ready to defend our harbors against aggression, to protect by distribution of our ships of war over the highway of commerce the varied interests of our foreign trade and the person and property of our citizens abroad to maintain everywhere the honor of our flag and the distinguished position which we may rightfully claim among the nations of the world

POSTAL AFFAIRS.

The report of the postmaster general is a gratifying exhibit of the growth and efficiency of the postal service. The receipts from postage and other ordinary sources during the past fiscal year were $36,496,816 58 The receipts from the money order business were $[illegible] making a total of $36,735 297 97. The expenditures for the fiscal year were $39,251,796 48. The deficit is supplied out of the general treasury The whole number of letters mailed in this country for the last fiscal year exceeded [illegible] thousand million The registered system is reported to be in excellent condition having been remodelled during the past four years with good results The amount of registration fees collected during the fiscal year was $712 882 20 an increase in the fiscal year ending June 30 1880 of $[illegible] The entire number of letters and packages registered during the year was 8 [illegible] of which only 2 661 were destroyed or lost in transit.

MONEY ORDERS

The operations of the money order system are multiplying yearly under the impulse of immigration of the rapid development of the newer states and territories and consequent demand of additional means of intercommunication and exchange During the past year 338 additional money order offices have been established making the total 5,[illegible] in operation at the date of the report During the year the domestic money orders increased in sales $40 [illegible] A multiplication of the system is suggested by reducing the fees for money orders not exceeding five dollars from ten cents to five cents and making the maximum one hundred dollars in place of fifty dollars I call attention for the disposition of unclaimed money orders in the possession of the postoffice department as recommended in view of the fact that their amount exceeds $1 000,000

The attention of congress is again pointed to the subject of establishing a system of savings depositories in connection with the postoffice department.

COST OF POSTAL SERVICE

The statistics of mail transportation show that during the past year railroad routes have been increased in length 6[illegible] miles and in cost $1 [illegible] 352 while steamboat routes have been decreased in length 2[illegible] miles and in cost $[illegible] 054 The service of star routes have been decreased in length [illegible] miles and in cost $1 [illegible] Nearly all of the more expensive routes have been superseded by railroad service The cost of the star route service must therefore rapidly decrease in the western states and territories

The postmaster general however calls attention to the constantly increasing cost of the railway mail service as it runs into difficulty in the way of making the department self sustaining the postal affairs of some of the foreign countries has kept pace with the growth of the domestic service Within the last year several countries and colonies have declared their allegiance to the postal union It now includes all those which have an organized postal service except Bolivia, Costa Rica, New Zealand and the British colonies in Australia As has been already stated arrangements have recently been made in the expense of the Star route service at the instigation of the department of justice and the post office department have resulted in the presentation of indictments against persons formerly connected with that service accusing them of offenses against the United States I have endeavored upon the officials who are charged with the conduct of the cases on the part of the government and upon the eminent counsel who before my accession to the presidency were called to their assistance the duty of prosecuting, with the utmost vigor of the law all persons who may be found charged with frauds upon the postal service

NEW COURTS

The acting attorney general calls attention to the necessity of modifying the present system of courts of justice a necessity due to the large increase of business especially in the supreme court. Litigation in our federal tribunal became greatly expanded after the close of the late war So long as that expansion might be attributed to the abnormal condition in which the community found itself immediately after the return of peace prudence required that no change be made in the constitution of the judicial tribunals But it has now become apparent that an immense increase of litigation has directly resulted from the wonderful growth and development of the country There is no good ground for believing that the business of the United States courts will ever be less in volume than at present Indeed that it is likely to be much greater is generally recognized by the bench and bar In view of the fact that congress has already given much consideration to this subject, I make no suggestion as to detail It is hoped that your deliberations may result in such legislation as will give early relief to our overburdened courts The acting attorney general also calls attention to the disturbance of the public tranquility during the past year in the territory of Arizona A band of armed desperadoes, known as cow boys probably numbering from fifty to one hundred men have been engaged for months in committing acts of lawlessness and brutality which the local authorities have been unable to repress The depredations of these cow boys have also been extended into Mexico which the marauders reach from the Arizona frontier With every disposition to meet the exigencies of the case I am embarrassed by lack of authority to deal with them effectually. The punishment of crimes committed within Arizona should ordinarily, of course be left to the territorial authorities But it is worthy of consideration whether acts which necessarily tend to embroil the United States with neighboring governments, should not be declared crimes against the United States Some of the incursions alluded to may perhaps be within the scope of the law (revised statutes, section 5 20[illegible]) forbidding military expeditions or enterprises against friendly states But in view of the speedy assembling of your body I have preferred to await such legislation as in your wisdom the occasion may seem to demand If perhaps will be thought proper to provide that the setting on foot within our own territory of belligerence and armed marauding expeditions against friendly nations and their citizens shall be punishable as an offense against the United States. I will add, in the event of a request from the territorial government for protection by the United States against domestic violence, this government would be powerless to render assistance

The act of 1795, chapter 36, passed at a time when territorial governments received little attention from congress, enforced this duty of the United States only as to the governments, but the act of 1807, chapter 39, applied also to territories. This law seems to have remained in force until a revision of the statutes, it was dropped I am not advised whether this alteration was intentional or accidental, but, as it seems to me the territories should be offered the protection which is accorded to states by the constitution I suggest legislation to that end It seems to me whatever views may prevail as to the policy of the recent legislation by which the army has ceased to be a part of the posse comitatus, an exception might well be made for permitting the military to assist the civil territorial authorities in enforcing the laws of the United States This use of the army would not seem to be within the alleged evil against which that legislation was aimed From statements of the population and other circumstances, it is often quite impracticable to summon a civil posse in places where officers of justice require assistance, and where a military force is within easy reach

INDIAN AFFAIRS

The report of the secretary of the interior with accompanying documents presents an elaborate account of the business of that department A summary of it would be too extended for this place I ask your careful attention to the report itself Prominent among the matters which challenge the attention of congress in its present session is the management of our Indian affairs While this question has been a cause of trouble and embarrassment from the infancy of the government, it is but recently that an effort has been made for its solution at once serious determined, consistent and promising success It has been easier to resort to expedients, to make shifts for tiding over the temporary difficulties than to grapple with the great permanent problem and accordingly the easier course has almost invariably been pursued It was natural at a time when the national territory seemed almost illimitable and contained many millions of acres far within of the bounds of civilized settlement, that a policy should have been initiated which more than aught else has been the fruitful source of our Indian complication. I refer of course to the policy of dealing with the various Indian tribes as separate nationalities of treating them by treaty stipulations to the occupancy of immense reservations in the west, of encouraging them to live undisturbed by any earnest and well-directed efforts to bring them under the influence of civilization The unsatisfactory results which have sprung from this policy have grown apparent to all As the white settlements have crowded the borders of reservations the Indians, sometimes contentedly and sometimes against their will, have been transferred to other hunting grounds from which they have again been dislodged whenever their new found homes have been desired by the adventurous settlers These removals and the frontier colonies by which they have often been succeeded have led to frequent and disastrous conflicts between the races It is profitless to discuss here which of them have been chiefly responsible for the disturbances whose recital occupies so large a space in the pages of our history We have to deal with the appalling fact that thousands of lives have been sacrificed and hundreds of millions of dollars expended in the attempt to solve the Indian problem It had until within the past few years seemed scarcely nearer a solution than it was half a century ago but the government has of late been cautiously but steadily feeling its way to the adoption of a policy which has already produced gratifying results and which in my judgment, is likely, if congress and the executive accord in its support, to relieve us ere long from the difficulty which has hitherto beset us. For the success of the efforts now making to introduce among the Indians the customs and pursuits of civilized life and gradually to absorb them into the mass of our citizens, sharing their burdens and holding to their responsibilities there is imperative need for legislative action My suggestions in that respect will be chiefly such as have already been called to the attention of congress and have received to some extent its consideration First I recommend the passage of an act making the laws of the various states and territories applicable to the Indian reservations within their borders Extending the laws of the state of Arkansas to the part of Indian Territory not occupied by the five civilized tribes The Indian should receive the protection of the law He should be allowed to maintain in court his rights of person and property He has repeatedly begged for the privilege of its exercise It would be mutually valuable in his progress toward civilization

Second—Of even greater importance is a measure which has been frequently recommended by my predecessors in office and in furtherance of which bills have been from time to time introduced in both houses of congress The enactment of a law providing for the allotment in severalty to such Indians as may be found prepared for it, of a reasonable quantity of land to them to patent for a period of years inalienable from [illegible] and their permanent advancement. In return for such considerate action on the part of the government there is reason to believe the Indians in large numbers would be persuaded to sever their tribal relations and to engage at once in agriculture It is now for their best interests to conform to their manner of life to the new order of things By no greater inducement can the assurance of permanent title to the soil they can be led to engage in the occupation of tilling it The well founded belief of their increased interest in husbandry justifies the opinion and belief that the enactment of such a statute as I have recommended would be attended with gratifying results A resort to the severalty system would have a direct and powerful influence towards disorganizing the tribal bond which is a prominent feature of savage life and which tends so strongly to perpetuate it. I advise a liberal appropriation for the support of Indian schools because of my confidence that such a course is consistent with the best economy even among the most neglected Indian tribes There is reported to be a general desire on the part of the chiefs and other members for the education of their children It is sad to think, in view of the fact that during the past years the whites who have been at the command of the interior department for the purpose of Indian instruction have proved utterly inadequate. The success of the schools which are in operation at Hampton, Carlisle and Forest Grove should not only encourage a more generous provision for the support of these institutions but should prompt the establishment of others and of more potent for good than the day schools upon the reservation as pupils are altogether separated from the surroundings of outer life and are brought into constant contact with civilization

There are many other phases of this subject which are of great interest, but which cannot be included within the bounds of this communication They are discussed ably in the reports of the secretary of the interior and of the commissioner of Indian affairs.

THE MORMON PEOPLE

For many years the executive in his annual message to congress has called attention to the necessity of stringent legislation for the suppression of polygamy in the territories especially in Utah The existing statute for the punishment of this odious crime so revolting to the moral religious sense of Christianity, has been persistently and contemptuously violated ever since its enactment. Indeed, in spite of commendable efforts on the part of the authorities who represent the United States in that territory, the law has in very many instances been enforced and, for a cause to which reference will presently be made is practically a dead letter The fact that adherents of the Mormon church which rests upon polygamy as its corner stone have recently been peopling in large numbers Idaho, Arizona and other of our western territories, is well calculated to excite the liveliest interest and apprehension It imposes upon the executive the duty of using against this barbarous system all the power which under the constitution and laws they can wield for its destruction Reference has been already made to the obstacles the United States officers have encountered in their efforts to punish violation of the law Prominent among those obstacles is the difficulty of procuring legal evidence sufficient to warrant conviction, even in the case of these notorious offenders Your attention has been called to the decision of the supreme court of the United States explaining the reversal in the case of Miles who was convicted of bigamy in Utah [illegible] refers to the fact that [illegible] celebration of [illegible] makes plain [illegible] and the property [illegible] that law of evidence which [illegible] wife incompetent to testify against husband This [illegible] on well [illegible] that in the [illegible] the fact [illegible] to a [illegible] quality [illegible] that [illegible] tion by which [illegible]

And yet Charles is not appointed. The suspense must be awful to some of the boys.

The Leadville Chronicle appeared on Monday morning as eight page paper. It is an indication of the substantial prosperity which that journal is enjoying.

Dispatches yesterday from Dublin say that a farmer named Rooney was beaten to death for paying his rent. This is the movement which the so-called conservative party seems to be now encouraging.

The civil service reform part of President Arthur's message will be anything but pleasant reading for the editor of the Chronicle. The president talks about reform just like Curtis, McCullagh and the rest.

It is uncertain how the committee in the house will be appointed, but it is said that Keifer, of Pennsylvania, will be chairman of the committee on ways and means. Hiscock, committee on appropriations. Kasson, committee on foreign relations. Reed committee on rules and Dunnell public lands. This disposes of the prominent candidates for speaker in every Judicious manner.

Senator Hill's bill providing for the removal of the Southern Utes to the Uintah reservation will be popular in Colorado. The bill will be objected to by many western members on the ground that Colorado like other western states should keep out of her Indians. But if this bill is not passed some other action must be taken. At present the Southern Utes have nearly all the arable land in the southwestern part of the Territory the chief will not allow his tribe to cultivate it. The white population is now getting so numerous that will occupy some of the rich valley land. This will cause trouble and be disastrous to both races.

We copy on the first page the best illustration of the enterprise of western journalism. The president sent his message in manuscript to congress yesterday noon. We publish it in full this morning in city of 60,000 inhabitants 2000 miles from where it was delivered. This is much more difficult feat than publishing it the next morning in eastern cities. All of these cities can be reached from Washington by a single transmission. The report we publish this morning was taken first at Chicago and then transmitted to Omaha. Here it was taken down again and then sent forward to Denver. It was again written out there and sent to us. To reach us the report was taken down three times and telegraphed four times, from Washington, Chicago, Omaha and Denver. Of course this must have caused delay and increased the liability to mistakes. The message contains 16,000 words. This is a marvelous feat for the Western Union Telegraph company to have performed. Some idea of the length of the message can be formed by the fact that it is equal to 1,600 ten word commercial messages, which cost $1 50 each. To receive the message in this office two operators were required during the afternoon and evening. Had the message been received at the rate of one commercial message a minute which must be considered good time the end of the message, if it had been sent without any cessation would not have reached here until two this afternoon. Instead we are able to put it in type and furnish it to our readers at the breakfast table. This enterprise would have been considered quite remarkable for a paper in New York city in 1860, then a city of 800,000 inhabitants. In 1881 a city of only 60,000 inhabitants requires the distance of, in what was then considered a desert accomplishes the same feat without any remarkable effort.

THE PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE.

We lay before our readers this morning the full text of the president's message delivered to congress yesterday. The document contains an excellent resume of the history of our affairs for the past year. But it will hardly be called a very strong document. It is characterized by good sense and an appreciation of the responsibilities of the office. It is much the same kind of a document as Mr Hayes usually presented. While it does not contain the vigorous discussion and strong grasp of public questions which we should have anticipated from President Garfield, it will secure a continuance from the country of that confidence in the good sense and patriotic endeavor which was so rapidly and heartily bestowed upon him in those dark September days.

The review of the different departments of the government we all quite satisfactory. We find that we are receiving $400,000,000 annually above our expenses, that all our fiscal affairs are in a highly prosperous condition. The message rather dodges the question of tariff reform. It clearly puts the fact that we have lost our commercial supremacy but gives a very lame, finikin sort of a remedy. It is suggested that our shipping have the same kind of protection as our manufactures have. Has it not this now? We have ruined our shipping interests before we have tried the protection policy. What we want is not so much to build out on subsidies to the ships that every one, exports and imports. This our laws will not allow. The profit of building is very small as compared with the profits of the carrying trade. If Mr Arthur had suggested "free ships" he would have taken a long step toward the settlement of the question. As it is he leaves us just where we have been and simply suggests we continue with the old policy.

The discussion of our foreign affairs indicates the most force and independence. His views on the Panama canal question are clear, forcible and American. He will doubtless affirm and maintain all our rights. His message more fully explains the mission of Walker Blaine to South America. It is evident that President Arthur intends to pursue a more vigorous and positive policy regarding South American politics. Such interference usually is indefensible. But Mr Arthur's purpose is high. He intends to be the interest of peace and republican government. His purpose is not to extend the power and influence of this government but to strengthen the weaker sister republics in the south. It has no scent of "Jingoism" and has no such purpose as Disraeli had for his interference in continental affairs.

The discussion throughout the message is on a high plane of justice and fairness. No line indicates an effort to tickle the popular fancy with glittering generalities or to appeal to low passions and prejudices. He asks for fairness for the Chinese government in legislation on the immigration question. He talks plainly about Mormonism. His views on the Indian question are just and fair. He asks for practical results which will settle the question forever. We laugh out here at any attempt to civilize Indians, or treat them like men with rights. But our position is as absurd as the sentimentalists. Nearly every state in the union has had experience in the last century with the Indians. We are on the border now, but every western state has been in the same position. Efforts in these states have been successful and experience is a fair teacher. We may expect from President Arthur an intelligent cooperation in the settlement of any Indian troubles but he will do other than to the Indian.

The message will be most critically examined for what it says on the subject of civil service reform. His statement of the evils of the service and his idea of what it should be must satisfy the intelligent reformers. But it totally fails to suggest any comprehensive plan for the remedy of the evils and the realization of a thoroughly and total civil service. His criticisms of the plans now considered seem at first blush good and sensible. But he fails to suggest a better plan. This compels him to civil service reform in a very vague and indefinite sort of a way which will not give him much trouble in purely political appointments. Mr Arthur has had great experience in the civil service and is wholly competent to devise remedies. It is a mistake that he should not have done this in this message. President Arthur has no better field to win for himself a great reputation than this. We commend the message to our readers as worthy of their careful reading and consideration.

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE.

have hitherto ended efforts to suppress the iniquity. I assure you of my determined purpose to cooperate with you in any law and do not hesitate to recommend any measure that may be proposed to that end.

EDUCATION.

Although our system of government does not contemplate that the nation should provide or support a system for the education of our people my messages contended to promote that general intelligence and virtue upon which the perpetuity of our institutions so greatly depends have ever been regarded with indifference by congress or the executive. A large portion of the public domain has been from time to time devoted to the promotion of education. There is now expected accession to this by setting apart the proceeds of the sales of public lands, or by some other course, the government should aid the work of education. Many who now exercise the right of suffrage are enabled to read the ballot which they cast. Upon men who had just emerged from condition of slavery were suddenly devolved the responsibilities of citizenship in that portion of the country most impoverished by the war. I have been pleased to learn from the report of the commissioner of education that there has been lately a commendable increase of interest and effort for their education, but all that can be done by local legislation and private munificence should be supplemented by such aid as can be constitutionally afforded by the national government. I would suggest that if any fund be devoted to this purpose, it may be wise to have it distributed to the different states according to the ratio of the illiteracy, as by this means those locations which are most in need of such assistance will reap its separate benefits.

AGRICULTURE.

The report of the commissioner of agricultural exhibits gives the results of the experiments which that department has been engaged on during the past year and moves an important suggestion in reference to the agricultural development of the country. The steady increase of our population and the consequent addition to the numbers of those engaged in the pursuit of husbandry are giving this department a growing dignity and importance. The commissioner's suggestion touching its capacity for greater usefulness, deserves mention, as it more and more commends itself to the interest which it was created to promote.

PENSIONS.

It appears from the report of the commissioner of pensions, that, since 1840, 2,870,000 original pension claims have been filed, 1,040,949 of the claims have been allowed and inscribed on the pension roll, 72,539 have been rejected and abandoned, being over thirteen per cent of the whole number of claims settled. There are now pending for settlement 260,000 original pension claims, 22,704 of which were filed prior to July 1st, 1880. These, when allowed, will invoke payment of arrears from the date of discharge in case of an invalid and from date of death or termination of earlier right in all other cases. From all the data obtainable it is estimated that fifteen per cent of the number of claims now pending will be rejected or abandoned. This would show the probable rejection of 34,040 cases and the probable adjustment of about 193,000 claims, all of which involves the payment of arrears of pensions which, with the present force employed, the number of adjudications remaining the same and no new business arriving, this number of claims, 193,000 could be acted upon in a period of six years, and taking the first of January 1881, as the arrear period from which to estimate in each case an average amount of arrears, it is found that every case allowed would require for the first payment on it the sum of $1,135. Multiplying this amount by the whole number of probable allowances, we have as the sum required for first payment. This represents the sum which must be paid upon claims which were filed before July 1st 1880 and are now pending and entitled to the benefit of the arrears act. From this amount may be deducted from ten to fifteen millions for cases where the claimant dying there is no person who under the law would be entitled to such pensions. This leaves $2,000,000 as the probable amount to be paid. In these estimates no account has been taken of the 48,000 cases filed since June 30, 1880 and now pending, which must receive attention as current business, but which don't include payment of arrears beyond the date of the filing of the claim. Of this number it is estimated 60 per cent will be allowed, and it has been stated that with the present force of the pension bureau, 625 claims, it is estimated, will take six years to dispose of the claims now pending. It is stated by the commissioner of pensions that by an addition of 250 clerks, increasing the adjudication force, rather than the mechanical, he could so dispose within three years. Aside from the consideration of justice which may be urged for a speedy settlement of the claims now on the files of the pension office it is no less important on the score of economy, inasmuch as fully one-third of the clerical force of the office is now wholly occupied in giving attention to correspondence with claimants and claimants whose cases have been on file for the past eighteen years. The fact that a sum so enormous may be expended by the government to equal the demands for arrears for pensions is no admonition to remove and the executive to give continuous consideration to any similar project in the future. The great temptation to the presentation of fictitious claims attended by the fact that the average sum obtained upon each application is $1,200 leads to suggest the propriety of making some special appropriations for the prevention of fraud.

INTERNAL IMPROVEMENTS.

I advise appropriations for and a general improvement as the nature of the case will seem to be of public importance. The necessity of improving the navigation of the Mississippi justifies especial mention of that subject. I suggest the adoption of some comprehensive system for the removal of obstructions which now impede the navigation of that great channel of commerce.

CIVIL SERVICE REFORM.

In my letter accepting the nomination I stated that in my judgment no man should owe an office to the gift of which he is to use a trust, and to a person who is lacking in the ability, fidelity or integrity which a proper administration of such office demands. This sentiment would doubtless meet with general acquiescence. The general opinion has been recently directed to a study of the wisdom and practicability of the various reformatory schemes which have been suggested, and of certain proposed modifications of certain appointments to public office. The efficiency of such modifications has been distrusted, mainly because they have seemed to exalt mere educational attainments above general business capacity and to set special fitness for the performance of a public duty. I cannot but feel that the idea that should be applied to the employment of the public service must primarily depend on the man to such a method as will test the condition of some of the qualifications which should be found in the applicant. Fitness should be based on a natural aptitude. The tenure of office should be fixed. Promotions of competent officers should be made as a reward for faithful performance of duty, and the public interest should be promoted by retaining in the service those who have proved themselves competent. Some of the evils of the present system have been so long and so universally felt that they have become a proverb. The remedy for these evils should be applied with a firm hand, but it should be a wise and a practical remedy. The evils have been so long in growing that they cannot be cured by a sudden stroke. Time and experience have proved that the principle of competition in the department of government is the best safeguard against the abuses of patronage. The results of the two methods of possible competitive examination were closely observed and compared. It may be that before a decisive conclusion on this important question is reached a further period of statutory experiment may be necessary. The adjudication of a portion of the commissions to a board of examiners selected solely for the fitness of the candidates as ascertained by competitive test, put me and to the public belief which attends the present system of appointment. It may be wise still to test the question by a further trial, which I have already ordered to be made, in less important offices than those in which the first experiment was made. The results of the competitive examination for admission to the service as heretofore shall not deter me from giving the system my earnest support. And I do not hesitate to recommend and should think it a fatal error to press any other reform upon this subject that an appropriation for a

How Edwin Arnold Became a Journalist

Joseph Hatton in Harper's Magazine

One summer day, some 20 years ago a young author and his wife were enjoying a fish excursion on the River Dee. A friend had sent them copies of the Athenæum containing a review of the husband's first translation from the Indian classics. Turning over the pages of the critical journal the author's eye fell upon an advertisement which announced that a lively writer was required for a new daily morning paper. The chief leader of the journalistic enterprise was hinted at, and the political principles of the services of the gentleman who was wanted were clearly defined. "That is the very position I should like," said the young Anglo Indian to his wife, the little boy, "the chief pages is a splendid and important experiment. The object one with which I heartily sympathize. I think I will write about it." And so the young couple sauntered home and secure of sunshine utterly in contrast with the surroundings of the blind street painting office. He was no inexperienced scholar no mere seeker after employment. The young author who had accidentally stumbled upon his advertisement that summer day by the sea. Educated at the King's school, Rochester and St. Kings College London he had won a scholarship at University College, Oxford. In 1852 he obtained the Newdigate prize for his English poem on "The Feast of Belshazzar," and in the year following he was selected to address the 14th Earl of Derby on his installation as chancellor of the University. He graduated in honors in 1854. On quitting college he was elected second master of King Edward VI's school, a famous midland counties educational institution at Birmingham. He resigned this position for the appointment of principal of the Sanskrit college at Poona, in the Bombay presidency, with a Fellowship of the University of Bombay which offices he still held when the words "Editor Wanted" attracted his attention in the Athenæum. He was taking a vacation in his native country. In 1861 the young Sanskrit principal bade farewell to Poona. He had accepted the appointment on the editorial staff which he and his wife had discussed. In a vague kind of way that very year off Dartmouth. The paper in question was the Daily Telegraph, the volunteer for journalistic work was Mr. Edwin Arnold, perhaps the most unselfish enthusiast that ever attached himself to politics and the press. Although in many respects Oriental in his tastes, Edwin Arnold may be regarded as a typical Englishman. He has never allowed his literary labors to overcome his love of outdoor life. A master of field sports, he has a thorough knowledge of horses, dogs and guns, and is particularly fond of yachting. Few men living have a more thorough acquaintance with Indian affairs. The first editorial he ever wrote in the Telegraph was on the British Empire in the east. Since that time he has written upward of 6 000 leading articles. During the two years and a half of the eastern question, which is stained with the blood of the great war between Russia and Turkey, Mr. Arnold wrote between 400 and 500 consecutive articles—leaders—that were looked for with interest and avidity by all classes of the people, the more so that the Telegraph found itself at variance on foreign politics with the party it had hitherto supported decidedly, and in favor of the maintenance of British prestige and power in the east.

OMAHA & DENVER SHORT LINE.

Its Convenience to Colorado Business Men.

Commencing Sunday, November 6, 1881, the Union Pacific company will run a fast Omaha express through between Denver and Omaha daily, over the recently constructed Julesburg cut-off

Leaving Denver (breakfast)	8 00 a m
Arrive at Sterling (dinner)	1 20 p m
Arrive at North Platte	7 00 p m
Leave North Platte	7 30 a m
Arrive at Omaha (breakfast)	6 00 a m
Arrive at Chicago (6 30 a m time)	6 00 a m.

Time, Denver to Omaha, twenty three and one half hours, time, Denver to Chicago, forty-six hours.

This new route is 180 miles shorter than any rival, six hours the quickest to Omaha, seven to fifteen hours the quickest to Chicago, St. Louis and all points east, and it runs the finest trains ever built—constructed by the Pullman company expressly for this line. They embody every feature of safety, convenience and luxury yet attained in railway equipment. It is the only through line possessing a water grade across the plains (averaging less than ten feet to the mile). It is the most picturesque route, has the best dining stations the heaviest steel rails, best iron bridges and most careful ballasting.

Passengers from Leadville, Gunnison, San Juan and all points in southern Colorado make close connection in the Union depot, Denver, and arrive in Chicago and all eastern cities some to have a full day for business on the day of arrival, practically saving from twelve to twenty-four hours, and avoiding all night changes.

Meanthe the old Kansas Pacific route, now Kansas division Union Pacific railway to Kansas City and all points east and southeast, and the Pioneer Union Pacific route from Denver, via Cheyenne, to Omaha and the east and northeast, maintain their usual standard of excellence. Tickets via Cheyenne as good over the new route, or vice versa.

Another good audience greeted the Watkins Sisters combination at the opera house last evening We are compelled to say that "Minnie's luck," as a drama has not the attractive qualities that can be attributed to "Jacquelie," which was rendered on the opening night, although the company tried to do their best well in producing it to the best of their ability As our columns are somewhat crowded with the president's message we are unable to give the play more than a passing notice Suffice to say that Miss Watkins as Minnie Hall and Miss Watkins as Jacquelie had ample opportunity to show their talents to good advantage Office 25 cents

TRY IT.
By the simple rule of addition all the figures from 1 to 9 inclusive must be used to make 100. You can do it in 5 ways. The figures must appear in the order in which they are here given. For example 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 = 100 is one of the ways. Another is 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 = 100 and so on. Here are example 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 = 100 and 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 = 100
There is but one way to do it the above puzzle and is the one that was offered last year and which I now offer
